

SUSQUEHANNA TRAIL WOODWORKERS GUILD

MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

We had a great day at the Glen Rock Brewfest, it was nice weather and we got to meet a lot of people who enjoyed watching our members doing their turning on the wood lathes. Thanks to all who participated in this event. Hope y'all have a nice safe summer and keep the sawdust flying.— Scott

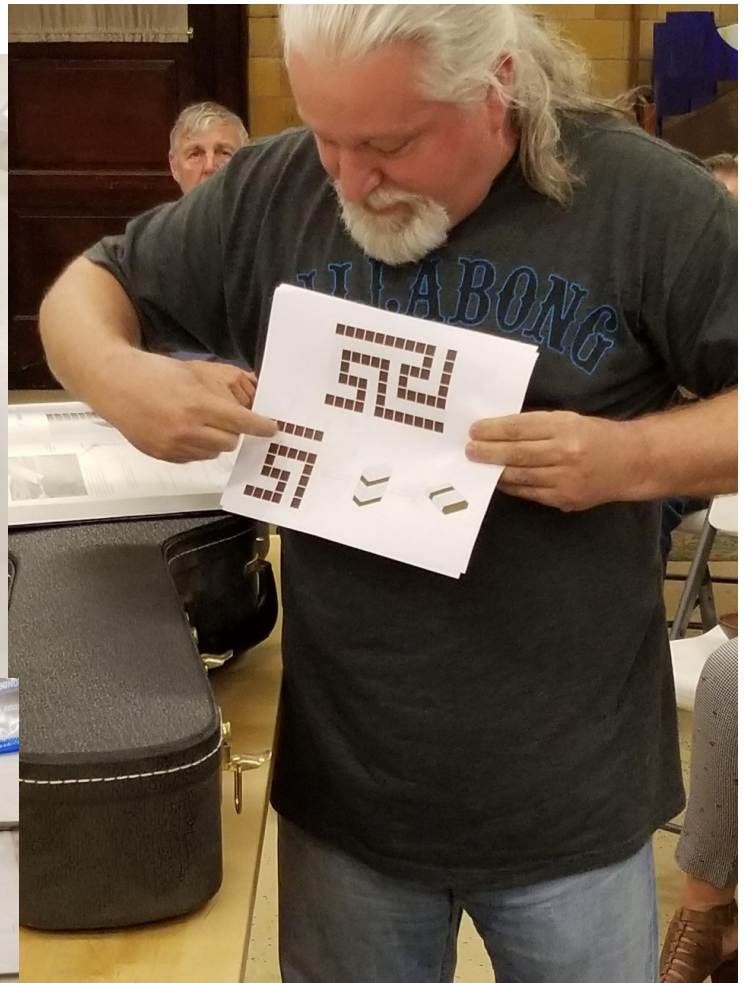

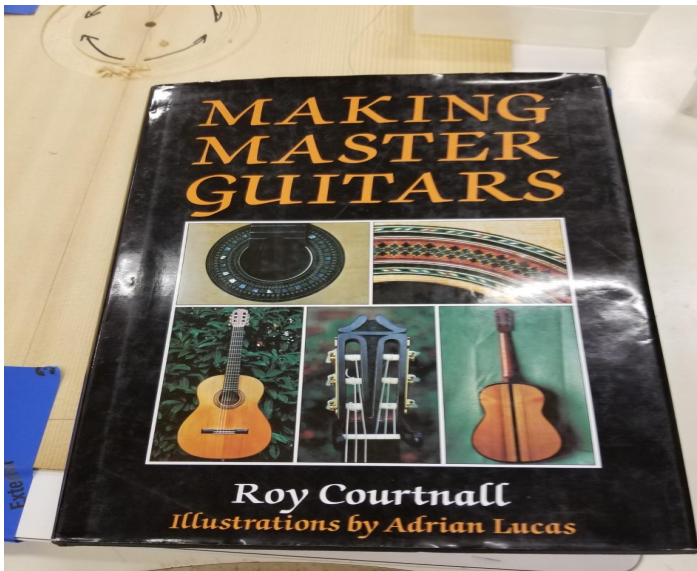

SELL YOUR OLD TOOLS

If you're tired of looking at that old tool in your workshop, and have been meaning to sell it, or just give it away, now is your chance. As a benefit to members, we're offering a new service. An "Items for Sale" page has been created on our web page. (stwg.org) If you wish to sell or give away an item, write up a description, and send it to: stwg@comcast.net. The following guidelines have been put in place:

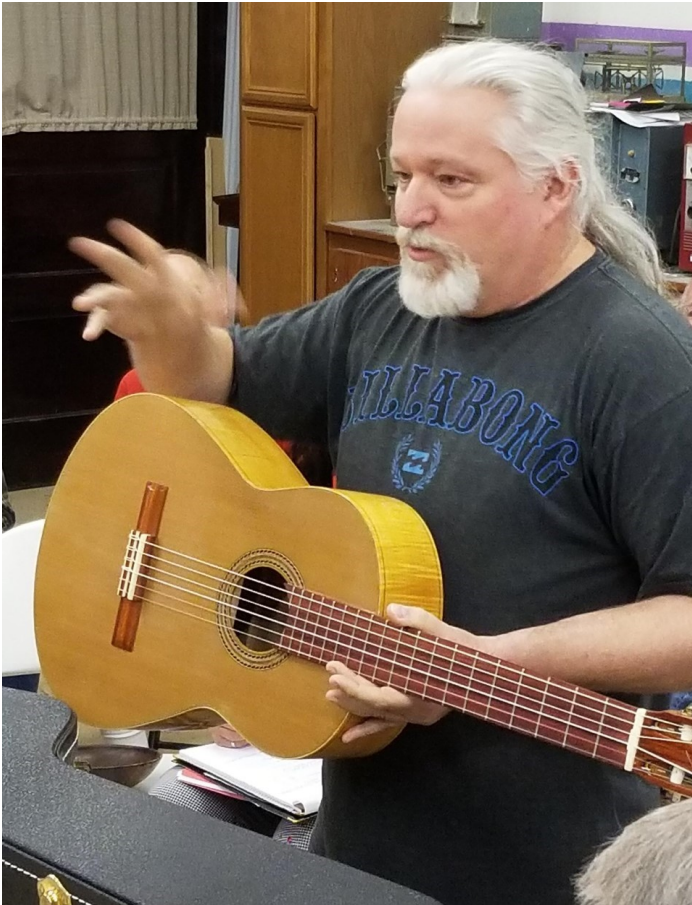

- No commercial sales. All items must be privately owned.
- Items will be posted for 30 days. If something sells, it's the owners responsibility to notify us to remove it.
- Every attempt will be made to have items listed within a few days of receipt. However, depending on schedules, it may take a bit longer.
- All posts are at the discretion of the STWG Board of Directors. Limit of three items per listing.
- If an item hasn't sold after 30 days, please wait two weeks, and feel free to resubmit. After another 30 days, it will be permanently removed, and may not be re-listed.
- All sales posts must include an accurate description of the item, cost, and contact information. STWG assumes no responsibility for any listed information.
- This is a text-only service. Pictures will not be posted.
- This service is meant for those who have old/unused tools, or wood to sell or give away. This is not a service for those who wish to sell finished products or services. All such posts will be rejected.
- There is no charge to use this service. All financial transactions are strictly between seller and purchaser.
